Eagles To Play Butler University In Annual Shrine Game Saturday

Game Opens Fifth Season For Penny

By Jim Payton
The Morehead State College Eagles open their fifth season under Coach Guy Penny Saturday, September 14, against Butler University in the annual Shrine Bowl.

The game site is Ashland's Putnam Stadium. The contest will be the fourth annual Shrine Game, which is sponsored by the El Haza Temple of Ashland with the proceeds being used for various charitable purposes.

Penny and the Eagles will be attempting to make an improved showing over last year's effort in which the Eagles were defeated, 26-18 by the Big Green of Marshall University.

Our first 15 boys should be of about equal talent, Penny said. "But after that our prospects must be viewed with question. If the youngsters of relatively little experience develop early and if we get some help from our freshmen, we could be a pretty good ball club."

Happy With Fresh

Penny was also openly delighted with his crop of 20 freshmen who he calls "the best freshmen group we've ever had."

He added, "I have been extremely pleased with the desire and spirit shown by the squad as a whole, and if we keep up our present rate of progress, we'll really be ready for Butler."

Concluding the day will be the homecoming dance in the fieldhouse from 8 to 12, featuring the Buddy Morrow Orchestra.

The Homecoming Committee has made every effort to provide for the finest homecoming celebration in Morehead history and we have geared many of the activities toward the alumni."

Harry Mayhew, Director of Alumni Affairs and coordinator of the day's activities.

French Students Visit Campus; Spend 2 Weeks At Morehead

Nine French students arrived at Morehead Friday, July 19, and spent two weeks on the Morehead State College campus in an experiment in international living.

Met by Morehead Student Council members, the nine left an Ashland airport for Morehead State College where students sponsored a welcoming banquet. A formal reception, sponsored by the Home Economics Club, in the evening presented the French students to administrative officers, faculty and guests.

The students attended classes at Morehead as visitors during the two-week period. They lived in residence halls with roommates who were regular students.

Dr. Lillayce Akers, Associate

Professor of Sociology and Foreign Student Advisor at Morehead was coordinator of the experimental project. The Morehead Cosmopolitan Club, Baptist Student Union, Newman Club, Woman's Club, Campus Club and other organizations entertained the visitors.

The French students had already toured the State Capital, Governor's Mansion and Lexington horse farms prior to coming to the Morehead campus.

They attended church with members of the Morehead Lakota Club Sunday, July 21, and picnicked at a local park.

The group attended its first class at Morehead on Monday, July 22.

A folk dance on the college boulevard was held in the afternoon.

An official welcome by the City of Morehead was presented July 23 at City Hall.

The Morehead Newman Club sponsored a tour of Carter Gages, picnic and song fest for the group Wednesday, July 24.

The remainder of the week was spent at formal receptions, fishing, movies, swimming, horseback riding and informal sessions with students.

The final week featured an evaluation session in the faculty lounge from 7 to 9 p.m. on July 30.

A patio breakfast at the President's Home was given on July 31 by President and Mrs. Adron

Governor Bert T. Combs

Classroom Building Named For Governor Bert T. Combs

The largest classroom building on the Morehead State College campus has been named the Bert T. Combs Classroom Building.

The four-story, completely air-conditioned structure, was named for Governor Combs by the Morehead Board of Regents at a regular meeting on March 12, 1962. But Combs requested that the announcement be made at a date nearer the end of his four-year term as chief executive of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Calling the naming of the structure for Combs "only a small token of appreciation for his efforts on behalf of education in Kentucky," the Board of Regents has continued its policy of naming structures on the campus for persons who have made significant contributions to Morehead State College.

The Bert T. Combs Classroom Building, which was occupied in the fall of 1961, houses the Division of Languages and Literature and the areas of business administration, speech, drama and special education. The Little Theatre is located in the building's numerous regional conferences are held in the building's conference rooms.

Two of the outstanding features of the structure are the large number of faculty office suites and the multi-purpose classrooms.

Editorial Policy Of The Trail Blazer Is Reiterated For School Year

Abraham Lincoln once said that to sin by silence when one should protest makes cowards out of men. This is the same time for a newspaper, and the Trail Blazer does not intend to sin by silence.

In accord with the purpose of Morehead State College, the policy of the Trail Blazer is to do its part in helping to build a greater institution of higher learning. However, this growth, in order to be normal and constructive, must be a continuing process and must not be interrupted by periods of inactivity and stagnation. One can not build successfully by continually learning down what one has built.

Likewise, the purpose of the Trail Blazer is not to attack or tear down the institution or any of its parts, but to help strengthen, build and support the institution which it serves. As a servant, the paper owes loyalty to Morehead State College and will support the institution in its moves toward the process of bettering higher education in the region, the state and the nation.

However, the paper will not subscribe to a policy of blind loyalty and be thus guilty of the sin of omission. As has been shown in the past, the Trail Blazer recognizes and will utilize its duty as the official newspaper of Morehead State College and will not knowingly sin by silence.

If, in the opinion of the editorial staff, a transgression has been evidenced, the Trail Blazer will attempt to point out the situation, offer possible means of solution and support feasible measures to correct the error. The paper will be no "yellow sheet" and its staff no "muckrakers," but it will endeavor to take interest in campus happenings and offer its views from time to time.

Trail Blazer editors are not the brain-children of an irate editorial staff who wish to criticize rather than solve, slander rather than debate or irritate rather than placate. They are not stabs in the dark or attempts to fill space, but are products of the earnest thinking of a number of individuals who hold the future success of Morehead State College at the apex of their endeavors. The Trail Blazer is the official paper of Morehead State College, not a vent through which Joe Blow, editor, relieves his mind of goodly portions of his own frustration.

The late great journalist Henry Watterson, founder and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, was always known as the champion and supporter of a cause. The cause supported and spearheaded by the Trail Blazer, its editor and staff is that of a growing, dynamic MOREHEAD STATE COLLEGE.

Learn And Become A Part Of The "Spirit Of Morehead"

There are many words that are synonymous with the word "spirit." Listed among these are: vitality, essence, soul, spirit, disposition, energy, enthusiasm, gaiety, etc. Webster defines "spirit" — among other meanings — as "enthusiastic loyalty."

The Trail Blazer staff is certain that Dr. Doran, while speaking to you yesterday in his orientation, used the term "spirit" in reference to the "enthusiastic loyalty" which you will find at Morehead State College. For it has long been a policy of this school to give the "spirit" of itself to the state, region and nation.

Morehead has welcomed students of many races, religions, creeds and localities to its campus and has furnished them with the opportunity for educational advancement and development. All students have gladly received the "spirit" of Morehead. They have given of their time and energy to help Morehead State College grow into the institution that it is today. It is one of the most dynamic, forward and progressive institutions of higher learning in the United States.

Perhaps you may ask, "What can I give to Morehead State College?" The answer is not hard to find, for there are many different avenues leading to it. You need not search for a golden rule; however, you may help Morehead and become a part of the spirit for which it is famous.

The student of living on campus for four years is given five days a week and weekend days of weekends, during the morning, returning home of weekends, during the morning, and testing forever, does not exempt one who has acquired the "spirit" of the institution. This person has placed nothing back into the hands of the institution that made his education possible. After he leaves to begin another stage of his life, is the institution better off for his having attended it? Naturally not.

Saturday, when the Morehead State College Eagles take the field against Butler University in the annual Shrine Bowl in Ashland, many students will gain their first opportunity to display the "spirit" of MSC. Freshmen will feel a single when they are led in the Morehead State College Fight Song. The strains of this rousing song have captured the spirit of Morehead in many ways. Perhaps it is the most overt example of Morehead's spirit.

During the next few years, a few students will really learn this essence of Morehead State College's "spirit." These will be the students who will leave their mark upon the institution through outstanding contributions to student life and service to the college in general. Morehead's advance will be their joy; its problems will be their problems. A complement to Morehead State College will be personal to these people. Likewise, an insult or slur will also be. "Ridgid individuals" will be the campus leaders, those who know and have the "spirit" of Morehead State College.

The student is then confronted with a three-fold choice — to be an asset, a liability or merely deadwood. Assets have a way of bringing desirable results for all concerned. Liabilities cause discomfort for all concerned. Deadwood? Well, it just floats around not doing much harm, but certainly not going to any constructive use.

Possession of the "spirit" of Morehead State College weighs the decision toward the former.

Summer Conferences Beneficial To Students And Educators

During the summer school session, Morehead State College conducted five summer conferences featuring nationally-known public figures. These conferences were designed to aid persons involved in elementary, secondary and higher education.

Attendees from throughout Kentucky participated in day-long conferences, which featured a general conference, a panel discussion, and a panel discussion seminar program in their attendance.

Notable figures such as Dr. William P. V. V. (Classroom Teachers Conference), one of the nation's leading science education authorities; Eugene Howe (Principals Conference), principal at Ridgewood High School, Norridge, Ill.; Dr. O. C. Carmichael (Graduate Education Conference), consultant to the Ford Foundation and the fund for the Advancement of Education; John L. Butler (Superintendents Conference), Superintendent of the Mt. Vernon City Schools, Mt. Vernon, Ill.; and Ben Reeves (Communications Media Conference), Managing Editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal spoke. In the afternoon, outstanding educational authorities in Kentucky participated in the panel discussions with the featured speakers.

A great deal was accomplished from these conferences, which were extremely well organized and carried out. Dr. Doran said that he felt that these programs would greatly benefit the summer school conference and that participants who came from throughout Kentucky. And, it did.

However, to use a trite phrase, there was a fly in the ointment. The people who attended the conferences benefited from them, but there were many summer school students who did not attend. Perhaps they felt that the importance of these conferences was trivial and playtime. We, of the Trail Blazer, make no attempt to guess at their reasons for not attending, for we are not mind readers. But, we do wonder why many of these individuals would walk to the door and then, when they found that attendance was not being checked, return to the Student House to spend the morning in the grill.

The afternoon sessions were even more poorly attended. Only a small number of the summer school student body of over 2,000 was present at these programs.

Perhaps these individuals thought they were "getting away with something" when they spent their spare time in the grill or loafing on campus. Perhaps they received something beneficial from this wasted time; however, there is no "perhaps" involved with the people who attended the conferences when they could. They DID receive something of an enlightening, educational and significant value. They gave of their time and received — they did not cheat themselves of the opportunities that were offered.

"The so-called laughing sickness now prevalent among certain African tribes is really hysteria," says a physician. Perhaps he assumes that in these unfunny times anybody who laughs is hysterical.

It's against the law to fly a kite in Washington, D.C., but evidently not illegal for a person to get higher than one.

A New Year Begins

The Fashion Scene

Capitalize On Good Qualities When Selecting Fashion Wear

Almost every girl entering college fears that she won't fit into the new way of life which awaits her. Often the desire to belong becomes an obsession and she literally loses her identity in her effort to conform to the mannerisms and style of her friends. She forgets that she is an individual and should make the best of her good qualities and minimize the bad ones. Her friends may not have the same faults and what looks good on one girl will not necessarily look that way on the next. These differences in girls make differences in clothing and hair styles necessary.

Some girls wear clothes so well that they look custom made. This is not necessarily so. They don't need to be wealthy if they recognize their good points and dress accordingly. If a smart girl is tall and thin, she would never wear a vertically striped, straight dress even though everyone else wears them. She would choose instead, a dress with horizontal lines, perhaps a full skirted one.

The rules for attaining the proper perspective concerning you and your clothes are simple and easy to remember: dark clothes are more slimming than light ones. Vertical lines create an illusion of thinness, horizontal lines make the figure appear shorter and wider. The shorter the hemline the taller the wearer appears. Flared skirts are more flattering to a plump figure than are the slim ones. Good posture is a must for any figure type.

For fall the look is sporty. Hairdos have come back to the soft unfettered "windy" look. Beware of long hair too curly — shoulder length or an inch below the ear should have barely a curve — and short hair too straight. A straight flat coil makes the head appear smaller and won't balance out a modern, artistic hairstyle. Sweaters, sweaters, sweaters, pinstriped jackets, turn-outed sweaters, walking shoes, pinstriped gloves — have enough bulk to necessitate a soft "windblown" hairdo.

Makeup is toned down to the very minimum. Pale natural lipstick and only the slightest touch of eye shadow. The idea is to apply whatever makeup you wear so lightly that it looks like it isn't there at all. The clear fresh outdoor look is best. Bulky knit sweaters, V-neck sweaters, cardigan sweaters, sweaters with slacks, with wrap-around, with Bermuda shorts, with everything — in class, on picnics and walks, at parties, on Sunday — sweaters go everywhere, do everything. Hurrah for sweaters!

We'll see boots this year — short boots, soft boots, wild boots. Boots have many moods. There are ankle length boots with lots of materials, linings and colors. There are calf length, knee length, and even higher length boots. They are protection from rain and snow and mud, for protection against cold and most of all for fun.

No matter what the style wear your own becoming version of it and above all remember that NEATNESS is the most important factor in a well dressed young lady.

A Letter To The Freshmen

Dear Freshmen,

Welcome to Morehead State College!

Your days of high school festivities are now behind you and you are entering a new, fun-filled, "twilight zone" located between the childhood era of governed activities and the adult age of uiccers, end-of-the-month bills and taxes. Your life at college will not be either of these, but a period of transition from one to the other.

Nevertheless, do not worry now about the coming of completely and utterly-frustrating adulthood. For the next four years will be among the most important of your lives. You will grow — physically and mentally and learn to live in the world around you.

Your mind is now ready to accept some of the world's greatest secrets that were hidden from you in high school and as you continue your college education more and more of these concepts will become familiar to you. You will become familiar with names such as Bergson, Nietzsche, Hardy, Orwell, Steinbeck, and others.

and were co-champions of the Ohio Valley Conference last year. The basketball and baseball teams also achieved championship stature as they ended respective seasons tied for the No. one positions.

You will also find that you are a part of one of the fastest-growing institutions of higher learning in the United States today. In the past seven years, the college's enrollment has more than quadrupled, the faculty has grown to over 140 members, and a master plan of construction has been developed which will provide housing for over 6,000 students and faculty members by 1970.

Activities are numerous on the Morehead campus, and you should avail yourself of as many of them as possible. There are clubs and organizations designed to fulfill all interests and many friends can be gained by joining these organizations. The "grill hour" (an individual who spends all waking and a few sleeping hours in the college grill with no other activities to vary spare time) will soon become a disreputable about school, studies, and life in general. The grill is a wonderful place to spend some of your spare time and meet new friends. Nevertheless, it should not become a home for you, because you will only be able to see a little of college life there. You should take advantage of all opportunities to meet new friends and join clubs where you can combine intellectual development with fun.

Well, we are taking up a lot of valuable space offering advice (something everyone does, but no one listens to unless they have already made up their mind as to what they were going to do and the speaker agreed with them). We do hope you will enjoy this year at MSC and will make the best of the opportunities offered you.

Again, Welcome to Morehead State College.

Education Is Great Necessity For Our Southern Progress

By WINFRED L. GOWDIN

Director, Southern Regional Education Board

On the surface it looked as if politics was the only subject of concern to Southern Governors meeting in conference in West Virginia this month.

But underneath the fanfare and flying flags ran an undercurrent of strong and persistent in its urgency — education for the South. Whether the headlines on the program read research center, or economic development or mental health, the discussion always returned to education as the bedrock for progress in any of these areas.

One program particularly attracted the attention of the assembled governors — a program which launches a major regional campaign against mental disorder. Introduced through the efforts of the Commission on Mental Illness, entitled, "Commitment to Health," the program mapped out fundamental goals and essential tasks for a campaign of mental health.

We Follow Athens

"Over 2,000 years ago Western civilization came to a crossroads — to go the way of Athens or Sparta. We follow those who chose Athens.

"We have fallen short of the ideals of the Athenian way many times in many ways. But it is in States should encourage and assist universities, mental health agencies and professional associations with their efforts to provide the supply of new personnel and to provide new skills and insights to those already employed, the Commission said. This can be done by training personnel in agencies, by training those in professions related to mental health by educational and professional training for university students, and by state recruitment efforts for the mental health fields.

It wears many names and many faces, but the concept is the same and more state leaders in education in many forms and guises.

Two Main Tasks

The report outlined two main tasks for the improvement of professional education in the field of mental health — to increase the quantity and quality of personnel in the mental health professions and related fields; and to formulate a definite policy of providing money, people and time for professional training in state mental health agencies.

The Editor's Desk

The 1963 summer session at Morehead State College was the most active filled in its history. So many things happened that it is impossible to have stories on all of them, especially in this first issue. Therefore, it was decided by the staff that this first "The Editor's Desk" should be devoted to the review of the summer session, which offered a number of new and interesting activities (other than the ones that were written up for the paper).

One of the most interesting activities was the second annual Adult Education Workshop. The workshop was held from June 12-14 under the direction of Dr. Nelson Grote, Chairman of the Division of Applied Arts, Business and Professional Education. The workshop was held in the newly completed building of the new state of Kentucky credit.

ST. CLAIR MEDICAL CENTER

On June 23, the dreams and prayers of many years of the people of Morehead State College and Rowan County were answered when the community devoted the new St. Clair Medical Center. Plans had been laid out over a period of 30 years for a modern, accredited hospital at Morehead, and finally it was a completed reality instead of a dream.

It was announced on June 21 that James Still nationally acclaimed poet, novelist, and short story writer, had been named to the Morehead State College faculty as a permanent writer-in-residence. Still will serve as an associate professor in the Division of Languages and Literature.

States should encourage and assist universities, mental health agencies and professional associations with their efforts to provide the supply of new personnel and to provide new skills and insights to those already employed, the Commission said. This can be done by training personnel in agencies, by training those in professions related to mental health by educational and professional training for university students, and by state recruitment efforts for the mental health fields.

Freshmen -- Meet Your President And First Lady

His wavy dark hair held partly under control by a uniform cap, the lanky young man hunched over his wares while pacing the littered day-coach aisle.

Persuasively he hawked peanuts, crackjacks, chewing gum, cigars, and cigarettes on the train between Parsons, Kan., and St. Louis.

At that time the news butch, a Western Kentucky boy named Adron Doran, had as his only ambition that of becoming a teacher.

And peddling peanuts was one way of earning a little money to help finance his education.

He not only achieved his school-teaching goal but went on to head the Kentucky Education Association and eventually to become a college president.

Almost Anywhere . . .

When not too busy with college administration, Dr. Doran is likely to be found almost anywhere in the mountains. Seldom is he absent from a meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission. Often he attends Boy Scout Council sessions throughout the area. He is in constant demand as a high-school commencement speaker. And on most Sundays he can be found preaching in Kentucky churches.

Known as a captivating public speaker, he is a qualified minister of the Church of Christ, although he never has held a regular pastorate.

Aside from Dr. Doran's educational and religious work, he has served four terms as a member of the Kentucky House of Representatives. During one of those terms, he was Speaker of the House. He also has been a basketball coach, and once was editor of The Fulton Daily Leader.

Dr. Doran served as teacher and principal at Boaz, Silver Shade and Wingo High Schools. He also was basketball coach at Boaz and Silver Shade. Later, he became visiting professor of education at the University of Georgia and was director of the Division of Teacher Education and Certification for the Kentucky Department of Education. He has been president of the Murray State College Alumni Association three terms, and for 10 years was secretary of the Jackson Purchase Athletic Conference. He had been a member of the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission and a member of the executive committee of the Blue Grass Boy Scouts Council.

He has also been a past president of the KEA, First District Education Association and Eastern Kentucky Education Association. (He is the only person in the history of Kentucky who has served as president of two different district associations, as president of KEA and as a member of the Board of Directors from two different districts.)

Resides being listed in Who's Who in America, Dr. Doran has been honored by being named "Kentuckian of the Year" in 1959 by the Kentucky Press Association and a Knight of the Kentucky Derby in 1962.

He has also been honored by various governors who have named him as: Kentucky Colonel, Arkansas Traveler, Louisiana Colonel, Nebraska Admiral and Oklahoma Commodore.

Two merit awards have been presented Dr. Doran, as he has received the merit award for outstanding contributions to education in Kentucky given by the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the merit award for outstanding contributions to conservation education given by the Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Graduate Of Cuba

Born near Boydsville, Dr. Doran was graduated from Cuba High School in 1928. He was a member of the "Jungles" basketball team. Dr. Doran was a pretty fair team, too, winning the district championship in 1928. Like a later Alabama team that won the state championship, Doran's quietness made him one of the Lexington tournament that year except for one thing!

Parents of the Cuba players refused permission for them to take part in the regional tournament at Lone Oak. Too far to travel just to take part in a basketball tournament, they agreed. They didn't want their boys traveling 35 miles away from home just to play games.

Dr. Doran attended Freed-Hardeman Junior College in Tennessee and received a bachelor-of-science degree from Murray State College, where he was a member of the basketball team.

Married As Student

It was at Murray that he fell in love with Miss Mignon Louise McLean of Sedalia. She is now Mrs. Adron Doran, the organist who plays between games at the state basketball tournament each year, and at halftime during Eagle home basketball games.

They were married while both were students at Murray, where he went on to earn a master-of-arts degree. Then she taught school while he attended the University of Kentucky, earning a doctor-of-education degree.

An individual who has done far more than her share to put Morehead on the map, Mignon Doran may very well be the only wife of the president's wife in the United States who plays the organ at home basketball games.

An accomplished organist, she is a hit at all home games and many fans arrive early just to hear her organ melodies. Sometimes a cumbó from the 128-piece college band joins Mrs. Doran at halftime for a "jam session."

Why does a college president's wife exert herself so when it would be much easier and far less taxing to sit back and observe the games like many college president's wives do?

The answer lies in the makeup of the woman herself. She has always had the philosophy that her activities should not be limited to teas and social gatherings in the president's home.

A Sound Philosophy

And her philosophy has been a sound one, because Morehead fans love her for the sincere interest she shows in them. Not only does she play the organ for all home basketball games, but she gives concerts and plays for women's groups throughout the Morehead region, has played for the NCAA basketball finals in Louisville before 18,000 fans and millions more on television, and this March will play at the Kentucky High School basketball tournament for the 13th time.

Students know and love her as a "mom away from home." Many a distraught youngster has gone to her with a problem and many others have come into contact with her as sponsor and founder of the Cosmopolitan Club and Cwens on the Morehead campus.

She also is an honorary member of the Breaux Arts Club, Future Homemakers of America, Delta Kappa Gamma and Sigma Alpha Iota.

Joe Cresson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, called her "Mrs. Morehead State College" in a 1960 feature story and she truly is that as she has "provided frosting for the cake by playing a leading role in spreading the influence of the college in various extracurricular affairs."

Mrs. Doran's activities aren't listed in any official college publication, but they are numerous. She has added her touch to the interior decorating of numerous campus buildings, including the selection of curtains and draperies for the dormitories, the library and the Doran Student House — named for the energetic Dr. Doran.

Mignon Hall

Because of these activities, the Board of Regents recently named Morehead's magnificent new six-story women's residence hall, Mignon Hall. The spectacular, semi-circular structure, set against a hillside, is a landmark in the efforts of Morehead State College's first lady.

Last year her activities on the state and nationwide levels greatly increased as the vivacious Mrs. Doran assumed the presidency of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

President Adron Doran—Morehead State College President Adron Doran is known throughout Kentucky. The versatile President, besides serving as the chief administrator at Morehead, is active in many extra functions. He's a member of A.S.A. commission, a qualified minister of the Church of Christ, in constant demand as a high school commencement speaker, and he has served as a past president of the KEA, First District Education Association and Eastern Kentucky Education Association.

Elected by the 15-thousand clubwomen from throughout Kentucky, she has attacked this job with the same enthusiasm, vigor, and know how with which she has approached her many undertakings on the Morehead campus.

As statewide president of the KFCW, her responsibilities away from the campus have grown and she finds that more and more of her time is spent in supervising the students' state-to-state tours.

But, even though she doesn't get as much sleep now, she still finds time to sponsor two clubs and the annual Better Press Week and act as a "mother confessor" for many students.

In the nine years that Dr. and Mrs. Doran have been at MSCE enrollment has grown from 600 to over 3,000, and new buildings and physical facilities have been seen springing up over the campus grounds for the first time in 20 years much as a package of dormant seeds, when suddenly planted in rich soil and put under special care, will grow and bud into beautiful flowers.

This freshmen, is your president and first lady.

Campus Skyline Changing With Rapid Physical Growth

By Roger Dixon

Morehead's new residence facilities for over 1,500 students, the most modern available, have opened an entirely new area.

Located on the east end of the campus, the new residence facilities now provide a new vista to those who enter the campus in recent days.

Since 1959, the college has constructed and opened for use housing facilities for over 6,000 students and faculty members. Construction is currently underway on a new residence hall for 200 men and one for 200 women. Plans are being laid for future construction, which will provide accommodations for over 6,000 students and faculty by 1970. Prior to 1959 the last residence hall to be built was East Men's Hall in 1957.

Mignon Hall, the most recently completed residence hall, is a six-story semi-circular structure with automatic elevator service. There are 75 suites consisting of a study-living room, ceramic tile bathroom, dressing room and a bedroom for four girls.

Named for Mignon Doran, wife of President Adron Doran, the ultra-modern structure houses 300 girls and increases the rooming space for women from 719 to 1,019.

Many Morehead residents, students and visitors alike have expressed their feeling toward the residence hall by calling it, "the ultimate in college housing facilities for women."

Wilson Hall, Butler Hall and North Men's Hall are the newest men's dormitories completed and will house a combined total of over 800 male students.

Named in honor of Dean of Students Roger L. Wilson, Wilson Hall is a four-story air-conditioned residence hall which will house 200 students. Opened in December, 1962, the Hall has been designed to provide a pleasant environment for housing facilities for over 6,000 students and faculty members by 1970 in addition to many new classroom buildings.

possible environment for ideal study and living conditions.

Students are housed two in a room in the $838,080 structure which provides a private study desk for each student and a special study area for groups on each floor. A lounge area has been constructed separate from the main building and is connected by an enclosed walkway.

Butler Hall, completed in 1961, houses 212 men. The four-story structure has a functional lobby, laundry facilities, and is connected by a passageway to East Men's Hall.

The residence hall was named for Wendell P. Butler, who has served two terms as Superintendent of Public Instruction and Chairman of the Board of Regents.

North Men's Hall is Morehead's largest residence hall, housing 402 men. The four-story structure contains 201 rooms, a director's apartment, a large lobby and the necessary auxiliary facilities to provide unusually attractive living quarters for male students. This modern dormitory was occupied for the first time in 1960.

Married Housing

Married students are housed in the newly constructed Lakewood Terrace, located south of the 35-acre campus. The four-story structure provides living quarters for married students and faculty members at nominal rental charges. Completed in 1960, nine additional food service facilities are also in various stages of planning.

Also under construction are a new stadium, track and baseball field on a 15-acre plot east of the campus, where the highway department is spending $50,000 on access roads to the athletic center.

Palmer House

The building was named the Palmer House, honoring the late John M. Palmer from whom the structure was purchased and who was an avid supporter of Morehead State College prior to his death in 1961.

Currently under construction are two new residence halls: a women's dormitory, Mignon Hall West, which will house 204 women, and a new men's residence hall, which will house 200 male students.

An addition to the Baird-Music Hall and an administration building were recently completed on campus, and an addition to the Johnson-Camden Library will soon be started. An addition to the Doran Student House, a new hall is a four-story air-conditioned residence hall which will house 200 students. Opened in December, 1962, the Hall has been designed to provide a pleasant environment for housing facilities for over 6,000 students and faculty members by 1970 in addition to many new classroom buildings.

NEW MOREHEAD BUILDING—The new $432,177 administration building on the Morehead State College campus, designed by the Dawson-Evans Construction Company, Cincinnati, and designed by McLoney, Tume and Clark, Architects, Lexington.

The First Time In Years

New Administration Building Centralizes Morehead Staff

A much needed structure on the Morehead State College campus was completed the week of July 1st as administrative personnel moved into the newly-completed administration building.

The ultra-modern structure, located on a 15-acre plot east of the College Boulevard and College Street, has made possible the centralization of all administrative offices for the first time in many years at the rapidly expanding college.

Costing $432,177, the split level designed structure was financed with state capital construction funds.

The structure was designed by McLoney, Tume and Clark, Architects, Lexington, and was constructed by the Dawson-Evans Construction Company, Cincinnati.

The main level houses the suites of offices for the President, Dean of the College, Dean of Graduate Studies, Registrar, Business Affairs and for newly installed computing and machine record center.

Located on the lower level are the Dean of Students, Associate Dean of Students, School Relations, Alumni Relations, Public Relations, In-Service office, vending room and mechanical room.

Designed For Future

The structure is designed to permit the addition of several levels as more administrative space is needed. The Social Studies — Education Building which previously held many of the administrative offices, is being renovated to provide additional faculty offices and classroom facilities.

The President's suite includes a conference room, three offices, a reception area, a secretarial area and a filing room.

Included in the Business Affairs suite are five offices, a large clerical area with service counters, a vault and storage area and a computing and machine record center.

The Registrar's suite includes an office reception area, clerical room and a large record storage room.

The Dean of Students and Associate Dean of Students have a large secretarial area with two additional offices for student personnel services.

Alumni Relations has two offices as does Public Relations. The two share a large secretarial area. Adjoining Public Relations are a duplicating room with a large storage area and a photographic dark room.

A conference room adjoins the School Relations and In-Service offices. The two share a secretarial area and a large records room.

Morehead State College has received a $8,000 grant from the Atomic Energy Commission.

The grant, awarded to the Division of Science and Technology, was used for the acquisition of equipment to be used in radioisotope technology education.

Dr. William B. Owsley, Chairman of the Division of Science and Mathematics, said half of the $8,000 was used for five well type scintillation systems.

"We were extremely pleased that our Division received such a grant," said Dr. Owsley, "as the equipment which we were able to purchase will greatly enhance our instruction in the area of radioisotope technology."

The awarding of the grant was announced by Russell S. Poor, Director of the Division of Nuclear Education and Training of the AEC.

Persons on the Morehead faculty who will utilize the equipment are Dr. William B. Owsley, Dr. Ham Falls, who has done graduate study in the area of radioisotope technology; Dr. Worsen, who has had advanced training in nuclear technology; Benjamin Lynd, who has worked at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies; Dr. Lamar Payne, whose graduate training was done in the field of radioisotope technology; Dr. James Kufies, who did advanced graduate training in radioisotope technology; Dr. Margaret Heaslip, who has had advanced training in research at the Oak Ridge Atomic and Nuclear Institute and Dr. Owsley.

Steve Hamilton To Return To Morehead As Instructor

Steve Hamilton, relief pitcher for the New York Yankees and former Morehead State College baseball and basketball great, will return to the academic world at the end of the current baseball season.

Hamilton has accepted a teaching position at Morehead State College and will also continue in his capacity as an assistant to basketball coach Bob Laughlin, a position he held last fall while working on his MA degree.

The recent major league All-Star game gave Steve an opportunity to return to Morehead in hopes of finding a house for the oncoming school year. Hamilton said, "We will be making Morehead our home now."

Steve finished work on his MA — which he received in absentia at June commencement exercises — and has been named an instructor in the division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Basketball All-American

While attending Morehead State College, Hamilton received all-American honors in basketball. He averaged 17.5 points per game his senior year hitting on 40% of his shots from the floor.

Steve Hamilton

His junior year, Hamilton averaged 24.5 points a game and received All-conference honors as well as in his sophomore and senior years.

The college basketball career of the Yankee pitcher was just as successful as his basketball career.

Hamilton at that time was the property of the Cleveland Indians. After being traded to the Minnesota Twins, he was traded to the Yankees and decided to quit and devote more time to baseball. He was sent to the Cleveland Pacific Coast League team in Salt Lake City and was called up to the parent club where he played before being traded to the Washington Senators. The Senators kept Steve one year and traded him early this year to the Yankees.

If success breeds happiness, Steve should be the happiest young athlete around, because he played on championship teams at Morehead State College and appears to be heading for the World Series now with the Yankees if the Bronx Bombers can keep up their present torrid pace.

Social Hi-Lights

Following spring, the season of romance, summer brought many engagements followed by the biggest step of all — marriage.

The students at MSC did not fail to increase cupid's files. Those taking the final step are as follows:

To start the month of June, Judith Kurtz from Mayville and Josh Lovelace, Paducah, were married June 1.

Married June 2 were Judith Reed, Flat Gap, and Woodford Bower, Pine Top; Carolyn Poynter, Worthington, and William Parks, Jenkins.

On July 13, Kay Wheeler, Raceland, Ohio, and Don Thornberry, West Liberty, tied the nuptial knot.

The following day on June 8, Vicki Parard, Irons, Ohio, and Ernie DeCourcy, Adamsville, Tennessee, were married.

In Morehead on June 22, Nancy Jo Brown, Salt Lake, and Gary Willey, Birmingham, Michigan, were married at the First Church of God.

Also married on June 22 were Sylvia Horton, Loveland, Ohio, and Bill Joe Layne, Morehead.

Other June weddings were Jack Keith, Cumberland, and Thomas Jefferson, Boston, Mass.; Kay A. Brown, Hillsboro, Ohio, and Jim Payton, Leesburg, Ohio; Colleen McClanahan, Brooksville, and Dale Dummit, Paintsville; Rebecca Reape, Pulaski, Virginia, and Boone Baldwin, Paris; Mary Kay Montgomery, Mt. Airy, O., and William Martin, Mt. Airy; Diane Davidson, Raceland, and Kurt Greene, Olive Hill.

Eagle Football Forecast Bright; Lettermen Form Solid First Unit

Quick Progress Of Reserves A Necessity

Once again, Coach Guy Penny will have to begin the football season with only enough lettermen to fill out a capable, experienced first unit. The first 20 reserves will be a solid corps, but reserve strength must come from partially-tested underclassmen, especially along the interior wall, the graduation of regular linemen makes quick development of freshmen and sophomores necessary for continued success by the grid Eagles.

Key losses included end Mike Brown, the league's leading punter, tackle Ernie DeCourcy, voted the OVC's top defensive lineman in 1962, guard-linebacker Bill Mitchell, and center-linebacker O'Phillips. Also, numbers one quarterback Paul West departed via graduation.

Returning at end will be vets as juniors Jack Smith and Richard Pare. A defensive standout for two seasons, Pare now seems ready to handle offensive chores as well. Smith proved his capabilities in both departments last year. Frontline reserves include sophomores Mickey Fletcher, George Adams, Frank Brown and Hershel McIntosh.

The tackle position will be manned by senior Doyle Lucas, sophomore Jim Osborne, a great prospect, and junior Dick Jones. Sophomore Harkins, also numbers likely to give additional aid.

All conference candidate Scott Davidson is the only returning regular at guard. Help for the 220-pounder will come from sophomores, Bob Slater, Ken Howard, John Congre, and James Hall, a transplanted tackle.

Senior Center Ron Ratliff is the only experienced operative at his position. Ratliff will be spelled by sophomore Bill Hornbeck, a converted guard and defensive regular last season.

Quarterbacking duties will be given to sophomores Tally Johnson and Mike Gottfried, both of whom enjoyed considerable success at the position in 1962. A versatile performer, Johnson will handle most of the Eagle kicking up chores.

The halfback slot will be well populated for Coach Penny as 180-pounders support will come from two promising sophomores, Tom O'Rourke and Bill Morgan, two strong runners.

These proven, first-line gridders should make 1963 another successful season for Morehead football, blessed with speed, offensive strength and defense. Coach Penny's charges seem capable once again to contend for conference honors.

Fullback seems well-manned with veteran Russ Campbell back for his junior year. The powerful 180-pounder's support will come from two promising sophomores, Tom O'Rourke and Bill Morgan, two strong runners.
